

Legalization of documents

In economic practice it is often necessary for the legalization of documents required for the registration and operation of the company. In General, legalization of documents is a set of formal procedures and notarial acts to make the document legal force on the territory of a particular state. Efforts money and time spent on the legalization of minimum if You run your business in the country have ratified the Hague Convention abolishing the requirement of legalization for foreign public documents it is often referred to as the Apostille Convention, 1961. In this case we are talking about affixing the special stamp for the legalization of documents. Countries subscribing to the Hague Convention on the Apostille of the last 50 years there are about eighty. If you need the legalization of documents in the country has not ratified the Hague Convention, the whole procedure workflow is much more complicated. The main mode of action in the case of consular legalization. The purpose of any method of legalization is gaining the ability to use the documents received in the official bodies of one state in the territory of another in the enjoyment of any economic action. For this to be confirmed by the authority of the authenticity of the signature seal or stamp officials issued a specific document. Of course we are talking about the translation of the document into the official language of the country of business. Often, companies use the services of specialized translation which carry not only direct translations but also its subsequent legalization. Three main types of legalization without Apostille 1. Consular legalization 2. Embassy legalization 3. Legalization in the chamber of Commerce The latter type is necessary in the implementation of the company's foreign economic activities will require the passage of several stages of translation certification in the chamber of Commerce and then is still inevitable final stage of a consular or Embassy legalization. There are a number of documents do not require neither apostille nor any kind of legalization in any country in the world we are talking about documents proving the identity of the natural person in the presence in the document of photography. First and foremost it is a passport driving license ID card military tickets and employment records. The economy is just about the complicated - All rights
