

To travel outside the country to get an education, to work, to live, to do business - is this the norm

To travel outside the country to get an education to work to live to do business - the norm of today's life. On the territory of another state You may need a variety of supporting documents. Besides all of this documentation needs to be translated correctly executed and legalised. The process of legalization consists in obtaining documents of a certain legal status which is recognized by almost all States. Legalization is done with the aim that the Russian documents were received by the legal force not only in our country but also abroad. Consular legalization is one of the ways of legalization of documents for foreign trade. Consular legalization is similar to an apostille. Unlike the apostille is used for document management with organizations from countries not party to the Hague Convention abolishing the requirement of legalization for foreign public documents signed on 5 October 1961. Compared with apostille consular legalization is a more complicated bilateral procedure. Consular legalization is required if Stages of consular legalization Consular legalization lies in the gradual certification of the signature of an official and seal of the organization to which this official in accordance with the structure of the administrative apparatus. So each document to be legalized must pass A simplified version of legalization and registration of documents an APOSTILLE is. APOSTILLE is a special stamp which, in accordance with the Hague Convention of 05 October 1961 put on the official documents of the States parties to the Convention with a view to release these documents from the necessity of diplomatic or consular legalization. The apostille certifies the authenticity of the signature, quality in which the person signing the document and where appropriate the identity of the seal or stamp which the document bears article 5 of the Convention. Since 1992 Russia is a party to the Hague Convention. Apostille is recognized by all countries participating in the Hague Convention and requires no further legalization. According to the Hague Convention canceling requirements of legalization of foreign documents applies to official documents issued on the territory of States parties to the Convention for submission on the territory of another state party. Under the Convention are not subject to identity documents issued by diplomatic and consular offices as well as administrative documents related to foreign economic operations. Respectively, these documents have an apostille is not

Link to article:: To travel outside the country to get an education, to work, to live, to do business - is this the norm